SENATE

Senate Bill No. 1128

---

INTRODUCED BY HON. MANNY VILLAR

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Philippine archipelago is blessed with rich fishing grounds and abundant arable lands. This explains why a large majority of our population is dependent on fishery, farming and agriculture-related industries as a source of livelihood. Indeed, agriculture remains the linchpin for economic growth.

Together with the infusion of the requisite capital investments, agricultural development is a function of the appropriate use of agricultural expertise. The agriculturists, veterinarians, aquaculturist, agricultural engineers, agricultural technologist and other agricultural technicians provide the needed assistance to the farmers and fisher folks. The intervention of these experts spells the difference between the success and failure of government agricultural policy and programs.

This bill acknowledges the impedance of government agricultural workers by affirming their rights and providing a mechanism for career development. Needless to say, personal fulfillment allows for a better sense of responsibility.
